Yay, breakfast blogging. Or vlogging, I guess. Here I am at Clover. Actually sort of testing out the sound levels, I know it's really always pretty noisy in here. I didn't know if maybe at some point, I might want to film in here.

Yesterday's class I really enjoyed. It's a lot of stuff. I'm really excited about music. My husband does a lot with weird music in fact, so I wouldn't be surprised if he helps me out a little bit with this. But we'll see how far we get.

I think I have some pretty good ideas for some of the shots that I want to take. I'll be meeting my partner, Nathan, coming up here in just a few minutes. We're hopefully going to grab some breakfast. So I'm pretty nervous to start shooting. Don't know how that's quite going to go for me personally. I'll try to be a really good partner, but we'll see how that goes.
