[US News GRE Info]
Hi Aisha,
we had given seminars beforehand, but mainly for undergraduates. It is great that you are doing it for the graduate students. I have helped a few students apply for graduate school. The biggest problem graduate students face is funding. I really don't know where we can get a list. Maybe the International student office can help.

One thing they really need to know is that the application process is a year long effort. Hence, they need to come up with a detailed time-line for GRE, when to choose the schools and get application material, when to apply, when to request recommendations, and when to write the essay.

You need to highlight to them that the essay is extremely important. The essay gives them a chance to show why they want to do research, why they are unique, what they will gain, and more importantly, how the school will benefit by admitting them and considering them for funding. They need to show that they are unique and the best. The essay should show this through examples of their activities and by telling an interesting story.

Same with the recommendation. Most African professors tend to write 3 line recommendations which do not make sense. The letters need to show the great values of the student, and they need to be very convincing.

If I come across more ideas, I will let you know...

Have a great time
Solomon
