STRUCTURE IN BABEL TOWER

Q: what are the structures that illustrate or even support this book?

babbletower
bran house snail shells twins frederica’s bildungsroman language itself... the human mind frederica’s own book, laminations

Q: how does this relate to Nietzsche? to Berlin Babylon?

Nietzsche speaks a little bit about architecture…
he works with it and against it, like Byatt architecture

N 57/ read passage... arch. opens way for Rausch double bind: language destroys and creates us committee on language and education (esp. 187-89) front line for building new society

193/ linguistics, chomsky
babbletower
fable on letting everything loose ultimately: we need literature for this imaginary space, so that it doesn’t get acted out in real life babbletower and nietzsche are deeply moral b529

reacting against placement, frederica’s placement within the family culvert wants to go from babble to new universal language (language of love!)

--chomsky’s generative grammar

--an ideal language-user could generate and understand new and unique grammatical sentences without ever having encountered them in practice

--we’re hard-wired, programmed for language

--there’s a deep grammar in all of us Ontology in Nietzsche and Byatt consider these passages

N55/ one must know who one is N20/ reason believes in the will as an absolute cause; it believes in the “I,” … and projects its belief in the I-substance onto all things

N21/ I’m afraid we’re not rid of God bc we still believe in grammar 21G.017 Germany and its European Context
Fall 2002

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: http://ocw.mit.edu/terms.