Prof. Pauline Maier

Writing Advisor: Nora Delaney

Requirements:

(1) Attendance and participation in class discussions. This subject is taught entirely through discussions. As a result, it is essential that students come to class having read the assigned readings and participate in discussions. Students will also be expected to give brief presentations on their chosen paper topics (see below) in the specially scheduled classes on writing papers. Class performance will be a significant consideration in assigning grades.

(2) Preparation of three papers, of which the final one will be a research paper on a riot, strike, or conspiracy not discussed in regular class meetings, but which applies the analytic techniques developed there. As the schedule below indicates, special classes will be devoted to choosing an appropriate paper topic, conducting research, and preparing final papers. Students will be asked to turn in a brief statement of topics on which they might write their papers on or before the class on September 17, and those proposed topics will be discussed in class on September 22. Thereafter written assignments will fall due as follows:

- October 15. First paper, circa 5 pages. Provides a narrative of the entire event to be studied, with a bibliography of the best sources on the event. Indicate which of these sources provided the basis for your narrative.
- November 10. Second paper, circa 3-5 pages. Lists a set of major questions---usually from five to eight---and appropriate subsidiary questions that cover the entire event being examined, from its beginning to end; chooses one of those major questions for closer study in the final paper, and explains why that question was chosen; identifies the relevant secondary and primary sources on that specific question, indicating where---particularly with regard to primary sources---those sources are available. Although the greater part of the second paper will probably be devoted to the list of major and subsidiary questions, be sure that it also covers the rest of the assignment! No paper will be accepted without a bibliography on the specific question chosen for further work---which is different from the general bibliography submitted with the first paper (although of course some works will probably appear on both).
- December 10. Final paper, circa 15-18 pages. Answers the question chosen in the previous paper. All papers must be based on both primary and secondary sources---that is, on documents of the time as well as subsequent studies. Papers should not simply distill information from other secondary studies since the point of this exercise is to give students experience in doing first-hand historical research. All papers must also include footnotes and a bibliography or bibliographical essay presented in a full, clear, and consistent form.

Since this is a Communications Intensive Subject, students will normally be asked to rewrite at least one of the first two papers. In rewriting papers, students are encouraged to consult the writing advisor, Nora Delaney. Note that the purpose of rewrites is to improve the skills not only of students who have difficulty writing but also those who are already capable writers. Rewrites must be turned in within two weeks of when the original papers were handed back. Although there can be no rewrites of final papers, students can submit drafts of the final paper for comments and suggestions to the instructors or the writing tutor before preparing the final version.

There will be no final examination.

Readings:

Most of the readings for 11.015J/21H104J are available on electronic reserves accessible through the subject’s course Web site. One book, Benjamin Labaree’s The Boston Tea Party, should be purchased. In another case, students will have to make their own Xeroxes of an assigned reading, Crisis at Columbia, from copies available in the Rotch and Humanities Libraries.

Class Schedule:

September 10. Introduction.

September 15-17. The Uprising at Attica Penitentiary, 1972

Cinda Firestone’s documentary, Attica, will be shown in class on September 15. Students should read the New York Times articles on the uprising, which are available online through Proquest, by September 15. Start the readings on the Boston Tea Party.

September 24-October 8. The Boston Tea Party, 1773.

Labaree, The Boston Tea Party. Students should read this book by the class meeting on September 24, paying particular attention to the basic narrative of Boston's "tea party" in chapters V, VI and VII, pp. 80-145, but also reading earlier chapters on the background of the event. There is also a brief summary of that background in the introduction to the "Readings" (below) and a succinct narrative of Boston's opposition to the dutied tea in the Upton article, also in "Readings."

From "Readings on the Boston 'Tea Party'":

Introduction.

Richard Frothingham's presentation to a special "Tea Party Anniversary" meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society on December 16, 1873, in Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society, XIII, 1873-1875 (Boston, 1875), 156-83.

"Destruction of the Tea in the Harbor of Boston, December 16, 1773," Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, 4th Series, IV (Boston, 1858), 372-86.

(Tuesday, October 13: Monday Schedule.)

(Thursday, October 15: First paper due AND readings on the Anthony Burns narrative must be finished. Plan ahead!)

October 15-29. The Rendition of Anthony Burns, Boston, 1854.

From "Readings on the Anthony Burns Crisis in Boston":
NOTE: Although the web version of this article is 50 pages, the article itself is 31 pages. Some of the narrative is redundant with other assigned readings, but look for new elements and consider the ethical issues Finkleman raises.
Boston Slave Riot, and Trial of Anthony Burns. Containing the Report of the Faneuil Hall Meeting; The Murder of Batchelder; Theodore Parker's Lesson for the Day; Speeches of Counsel on Both Sides. Corrected by Themselves; A Verbatim Report of Judge Loring's Decision; and Detailed Account of the Embarkation (Boston, 1854).
Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Cheerful Yesterdays (Cambridge, 1900), 132-66.

(November 10: Second Paper due.)

November 5-19. The Lockout/Strike at Homestead, Pennsylvania, 1892 begins with a summary of "events." These appear on pages xii, 24, 46, 72, 104, 126, 162, 180, 202. Along with the "Afterword" on pps. 225-28, they provide a succinct chronology of the event. Read those pages as well as the Yellen chapter (below) by November 5.

From the "Readings":

(Thursday, November 26: Thanksgiving Holiday.)

November 24, December 1-10. The Uprising at Columbia University, 1968.

From the "Readings" on the course Web site:

December 10: Last Class; Conclusion; final papers due.
