Images from The Nuremberg Chronicle, 1493, Part I
MIT Rare Books & Special Collections
The Seven Ages of the World, as presented in the Nuremberg Chronicle:

First age: from creation to the Deluge
Second age: up to the birth of Abraham
Third age: up to King David
Fourth age: up to the Babylonian captivity
Fifth age: up to the birth of Jesus Christ
Sixth age: up to the present time (the largest part)
Seventh age: outlook on the end of the world and the Last Judgement
“Title page”, with inscriptions from previous owners
This image is in the public domain.
Introductory page with missing rubrication
One of two colored illustrations in the MIT copy.

This image is in the public domain.
“In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth.”
“On the seventh day, God rested.”
Notations on a page discussing cosmology and history. Note the “nota bene” annotation in the middle Margin, and the pointing finger below it. The notations in the right margin count the ages of the world.
God creates Eve from Adam’s rib in the first age of the world.
Adam and his progeny, first age of the world.
Noah’s Ark, and the Rainbow Covenant. Second age of the world.
Humans and monsters,
Second age of the world.
Ages of man, beginning with Noah. Second age of the World.
Jerusalem.
Second Age of the World.