INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL HISTORY

Spring 2011
TR 2:30-4

Prof. H. Ritvo  Rebecca Woods
Teaching Assistant

Subject Description
A historical overview of the interactions between people and their environments. Focusing primarily on the period after Columbus, the subject explores the influence of nature (climate, topography, plants, animals, and microorganisms) on human history and the reciprocal influence of people on nature. Topics include the biological consequences of the European encounter with the Americas, the environmental impact of technology, and the roots of the current environmental crisis.

CI CREDO
Communication intensive subjects in the humanities, arts, and social sciences should require at least 20 pages of writing divided among 3-5 assignments. Of these 3-5 assignments, at least one should be revised and resubmitted. HASS CI subjects should further offer students substantial opportunity for oral expression, through presentations, student-led discussion, or class participation.

Readings
The following books can be purchased at the MIT Bookstore or through various online booksellers. They are also available at the Reserve Library.

Rachel Carson, Silent Spring
James Cook, Journals of Captain Cook (Penguin edition)
William Cronon, Changes in the Land
Karl Jacoby, Crimes Against Nature
Peter C. Mancall, Envisioning America
Richard White, The Organic Machine
Written Assignments

There will be three papers, of at least 5, 5, and 10 pages, due in class on February 24, March 29, and May 12 respectively. A proposal for paper 3 will be due on April 12. Specific assignment sheets will be handed out later in the term. The last assignment will also include an oral presentation. Either assignment 1 or assignment 2 (your choice) must be revised and resubmitted for a new grade. If you like, you can revise and resubmit both assignment 1 and assignment 2.

In addition, a single page (not hand written) of informal reflections on each reading will be due in class on the day it is scheduled for discussion (normally the second class of each unit).

Exam

There will be an in-class exam on April 14, on the material covered up to that date in class and in the readings.

Things to remember

Written assignments should represent original and individual work. The following link to the MIT Online Writing and Communication Center gives some suggestions about how to recognize plagiarism and how to avoid it.
http://writing.mit.edu/wcc
All sources used in written assignments must be fully cited. This includes sources of information as well as direct quotations; it includes the assigned readings as well as other materials.

Assignments are to be handed in on time. If an extension becomes necessary it should be requested ahead of the due date. Otherwise, lateness will be penalized.

Attendance is important. Not all the material to be covered in class is included in the readings. Be sure to bring your copy of the readings to discussion classes.

Grading will be based on the three written assignments, the exam, and class participation (including informal reflections), weighted as follows: paper 1—10%; paper 2—15%; paper 3 (including final oral presentation)—30%; exam—30%; class participation (including response papers)—15%.
