David Steinmiller

David Steinmiller – Claros Founder and Chief Operating Officer, previously served as Director of Engineering at WebOligos and Eos Biotechnology where he developed instruments for genomics research. Mr. Steinmiller created and patented a high-throughput system for synthesizing nucleic acids and transitioned the technology from concept to prototype to production device. This technology formed the core of WebOligos, which produced and marketed synthetic DNA, and which was acquired by Invitrogen. Mr. Steinmiller holds a B.S. and M.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Stanford and an MBA from the MIT Sloan School of Management.
