1. a) I cannot blame him. At my nativity
   The front of heaven was full of fiery shapes,
   Of burning cressets, and at my birth
   The frame and huge foundation of the earth
   Shaked like a coward.

b) This not well, my lord; this is not well
   What say you to it? Will you again unknit
   The churlish knot of all-abhorred war,
   And move in that obedient orb again
   Where you did give a fair and natural light,
   And be no more an exhaled meteor,
   A prodigy of fear, and a portent
   Of broached mischief to the unborn times

2. There is a willow grows aslant a brook
That shows his hoar leaves in the glassy stream.
There with fantastic garlands did she come
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids to dead men’s fingers call them.
There on the pendent boughs her coronet weed
Clambering to hang, an envious sliver broke;
When down the weedy trophies and herself
Fell in the weeping brook. Her clothes spread wide,
And mermaid-like awhile they bore her up;
Which time she chanted snatches of old tunes,
As one incapable of her own distress,
Or like a creature native and endued
Unto that element. But long it could not be Till that her garments, heavy with their drink,
Pulled the poor wretch from her melodious lay
To muddy death.

Thus does Gertrude describe Ophelia’s death. Think of what kind of atmosphere they create, who says them, and how she says it. Carry out a close reading of the lines to suggest their significance.
