Warm-up: Paper 2 Abstracts and outlines

- An outline helps you create a structure and argument that flows and makes sense
- An abstract is the series of points you plan to make

Chen Yi and Toru Takemitsu

- Historiography of living composers
- Historiography of “non-Western” [=non-white? non-European?] composers
- Analyzing / pinpointing what sounds “Eastern” and “Western” – referential analysis
Title and composer of Piece 1: ________________________________
Title and composer of Piece 2: ________________________________
Year Piece 1 was written: ________________  Year Piece 2 was written: ________________
Nationality of composers: __________________ [and] __________________
General stylistic traits of the pieces that you see as common or comparative:

General stylistic traits of the pieces that you see as contrasting or contradictory:

Possible analytical angles for substantiating the argument:

OUTLINE:
Introduction (thesis):

First main topic/point in comparing the works: ________________________________
Evidence for that topic or point:

Second main topic/point in comparing the works: ________________________________
Evidence for that topic or point:

Third main topic/point in comparing the works: ________________________________
Evidence for that topic or point:

Fourth main topic/point in comparing the works: ________________________________

Evidence for that topic or point:

Now you can draft the abstract: a paragraph-length summary of the argument, laying out your thesis and evidence. Each sentence represents roughly one main point and how you demonstrate that point.

ABSTRACT:
21M.260 Stravinsky to the Present
Spring 2016

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: https://ocw.mit.edu/terms.